WELCOMED TO HIS OLD HOME. Bryan Received by His Forme

Neighbors at Salem, Ill.

Never before in its history has Salem Ill., a little town of 2,000 people, been so ablaze in glory as it was last night. Ordinarily the citizens retire for the night by 9 o'clock. At 10 it is as quiet as a country churchyard; at midnight there is nothing left with which to compare the stillness ferent. W. J. Bryan, leader of the demo-eratic national campaign, a native of the place, returned. The whole town was out to meet him. Then there were sky rockets and roman candles and red fire burning along the route by which Mr. Bryan was onducted to the home of his sister. When the train pulled up to the Salem depot there were many persons en hand ready to welcome Mr. Bryan from all over Marion county. The reception committee was composed of the following citizens: Gen. J. S. Martin, T. E. Merritt, S. J. Smith, Thomas S. Marshall, Dr. W. H. Young, Dwyer Evans, B. G. Martin, Rev. S. P. Yeung, J. D. Tilford, Gilbert Williams and age by the committee and taken to the of Mr. Bryan's sister, Mrs. James I. Awaiting them at the house were Mary Van Antwerp, Mrs. Davenport, Zaock Jennings, all relatives of the Bryan to have a celebration at this time as but two short weeks ago he was called to Salem to attend the deathbed of his mother. She was buried by the side of Judge former fellow-townsmen were there by hundreds. They cheered and shouted le bands played and the anvils boomed.

As he stepped out upon the little vine-As he stepped out upon the little vine-covered porch, in response to the calls of his friends, he shoved by the twitching of the muscles of his face and the huskiness of his voice that he was deeply affected. He needed no introduction. As soon as he could control his voice, he spoke as follows: "Fellow Citizens—I don't know what to say more than to thank you. No spot, I think, can ever become so dear to a man as the spot about which clusters sacred back to Salem every few months since I left here, and no spot on earth will be so dear as Salem. (Applause) I assure you I appreciate the friendly interest which you manifest, and more so because in this there is no party. I see here my friends in all parties, persons of different political faith, as well as those who agree with the principles which I have advo-cated, and I am deeply touched with this nanifestation of your esteem and confi-

"I wish I could have with me the gentleman who occupies the place with me on the national ticket. I wish you could see and become acquainted with Mr. Sewall, who is our candidate for Vice President. Although my acquaintance with him is not long I think a great deal of him. I think he is a manly man, and I wish he could come here and greet you and become acquainted with the enthusiasm that has been manifested tonight. If elected my fullest hope will be gratified. I have but one destre, and that to bring back to our people the government as our fatters intended it, a government which shall be conducted on principles of equality before the law; which shall protect the rights of life and liberty. (Applause.) Which shall know no difference between the simplest citizen in the land and the greatest citizen in the land; a government which shall be no respector of persons, but shall, like heaven, treat all alike. (Applause.) "I don't believe that a service with the same that a service with the same that a service when the same that the same that a service with the same that the sa

"I don't believe that a candidate for office has any right to ask people to vote for him as a personal favor, but has a right to claim the vote of all that believe that through his election they can best protect their cwn interests and serve their country. That is the theory upon which a man may obtain support. Your votes are your own, to use according to your own judgment. I can simply appeal to you to take the issues and study them as citizens upon whom rest grave responsibilities, and when you have decided, all I ask of you is to let your vote register your wish. Let satisfied. I can only say here over and over again that I am deeply gratified for this very cordial reception at the place of my birth, and you will accept that until I can thank you personally for your consideration.

When he had ended his talk there was loud and enthusiastic applause. Then the arsembled citizens formed in line along the walk in front of the house and beneath the huge trees, and Mr. Bryan passed along in front of them and gave each a hearty hand-shake. There were no other speeches. The people departed to their homes, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan went to rest, weary and worn from the excitement of the day.
